

GREEKS WILL ASSEMBLE HERE IN WAR SUPPLY

Convention of 15,000 to Meet in July.
Want Venizelos Recognized.

More than 15,000 Greeks will assemble in Washington early in July to hold a monster convention for the purpose of impressing President Wilson and the American government with the importance of recognizing Venizelos as the executive head of the Greek government.

Representative committees from all over the United States and several of the Latin-American countries are expected to be present, and the assemblage promises to be unique in many ways.

Greeks all over the world are making strenuous efforts to induce President Wilson to recognize the former Greek premier. They assert that the pro-German King, Constantine, who is now the nominal head of a part of the Greek people, is an enemy to the best interest of Greece.

A gathering of more than 10,000 Greeks was held at Terrace Garden, New York, on Palm Sunday, under the auspices of Petros T. Tatanis, Greek patriot and millionaire. Resolutions were adopted informing the premier of the support of $75,000 of the 400,000 Greeks in this country.

Venizelos cabled in response, in part, as follows:

"By disavowing the King, with whom the nation has decisively broken, and since the tragic events of December, you have expressed the unanimous sentiment of the Greek Liberals. I congratulate you upon your resolution to place all the forces in your control in the service of the noble task undertaken by the United States."

NAVY POSTERS TORN DOWN.

New York, April 26.—Capt. John F. Lucey, chairman of the recruiting committee of the mayor's committee on national defense, reported to Police Commissioner Woods yesterday that recruiting posters are systematically defaced or torn down. Secret Service agents have been assigned to learn if this is done by any organization or class of citizens.

LOSES $2,000 WORTH OF RADIUM.

Baltimore, Md., April 26.—There was something of a stir yesterday at the sanatorium of Dr. Howard A. Kelly, of Eutaw place. Six thousand dollars worth of radium was spilled on the floor of a small room and no one could find it. A tube of radium burst and the precious mineral was scattered about the floor. About $4,000 worth was recovered later.

Are You for Conscription?

President Wilson, following the advice of our army experts and guided by the experience of Great Britain, insists that Congress should pass immediately an act providing for conscription of all able-bodied men between certain specified ages.

Did Czar Nicholas Get Drunk On Night of Russ Revolution?

Slav Newspaper Reports Indicate That One General Suggested Opening Battle Front to German Forces—Emperor Advised to Drink.

Special to The Washington Herald.

New York, April 26.—Vivid and dramatic pictures of the accomplishment of the Russian revolution are given in copies of Russian newspapers which have just reached New York. Brief and bare of details though they are, these glimpses of the revolt are as clear-cut as cinema scenes.

One of the most interesting descriptions is that given of the last night on the imperial train, as it was shunted back and forth from station to station, while the few remaining adherents of the Czar flogged their wits to devise some scheme which might give them another chance to regain control. That night of March 12 was perhaps the most momentous in Russian history. With the Czar, according to the Petrograd newspapers, were the old Baron Fredericks, minister of the court; Admiral Miloff, and Gen. Voyekoff. Driven desperate by their situation, they all drank heavily, the stories say, and Miloff was heard at least to suggest that the Czar should drink, too.

"Open Front to Germans," continued Mr. Sack, "the Czar left his railroad car at Pskoff. A correspondent who saw him there describes him as pale, looking very miserable, his soldier's coat, with its collar insignia, unduly and disorderly. His hat was pushed far back on his head, and he continually drew his hand across his forehead. His gaze was fixed absent-mindedly upon the station buildings. Next to him stood Admiral Miloff, entirely drunk and singing to himself under his breath."

"Yes, Gregory Rasputin told us that many times, but we would not listen to him. I could have sworn that Emperor William was not fighting the Czar, but revolutionary Russia. To this the Czar answered:

"After that he cried, then added: 'Oh, if I could be sure my children and my wife would be safe in the hands of these mujiks, I would go to Livadia and peacefully finish my life there. Let Michael reign. How he understands it!' (This reference to the Czar's brother was distinctly in sarcasm.) The people like him."

"After signing the abdication," continued Mr. Sack, "the Czar left his railroad car at Pskoff. A correspondent who saw him there describes him as pale, looking very miserable, his soldier's coat, with its collar insignia, unduly and disorderly. His hat was pushed far back on his head, and he continually drew his hand across his forehead. His gaze was fixed absent-mindedly upon the station buildings. Next to him stood Admiral Miloff, entirely drunk and singing to himself under his breath."

"When the news came that Petrograd, Tsarskoe-Selo, and Moscow were already in the hands of the revolutionists."

LEGISLATION NEEDED TO CONTROL SHIPPING

President Will Urge Congress to Take Immediate.

President Wilson will urge Congress to pass at the earliest possible date, legislation that will enable the United States Shipping Board to control the shipping of the entire nation, as a means of quickly increasing tonnage in the trans-Atlantic trade. The immediate need of such legislation to further the government's aims to send food and war supplies to the nation's allies, developed last night following a conference between the Federal committee on shipping and the shipping board.

The committee on shipping recommended to the Council of National Defense the enactment of legislation similar in character to that urged by President Wilson at the last session of Congress, but which was side-tracked along with other bills of far-reaching importance in the present crisis, because of the filibuster in the Senate. Plans to aid the allies upon the vast scale mapped out will be seriously embarrassed unless the powers to be asked for by the President are obtained. It was authoritatively declared at the close of the conference.

PROF. ENOCH LECTURES ON INDIA AND THE WAR

The lecture of Prof. George F. Enoch, of this city, who will speak at the Poll Theater Sunday evening is said to be well worth attending as attested by the fact that large crowds have heard him in the various parts of California, places in the Middle West, and a number of the large cities in the East.

Ice Advances in Price

As Summer Days Approach

And again the H. C. of L. goes up! This time it's the summer necessity, ice, which is in the price elevator. So, even if vegetables get cheaper it will cost more to keep 'em cool. When the ice man comes around on May 1 you will have to hand over an extra 10 cents for every hundred pounds.

The American and other ice companies issued notice yesterday that ice would advance May 1. The cause? Why it costs more to make it.

Lovely White Skin!

Strain lemon juice well before mixing and massage face, neck, arms, hands.

By all means, girls, prepare a lemon lotion to keep your skin flexible and young looking. You will soon realize that true loveliness does not mean the powdery whiteness or waxen colorlessness of some hot-house flower, but is typified by the velvety softness of your skin, your peach-like complexion and rosy-white hands.

At the close of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is bleaches and removes such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smootheners and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and hidden beauty of any skin. It is simply marvelous to smoothen rough red hands—Adv.
